RING SIZE INFORMATION

When it comes to Ring Sizes, choosing the appropriate ring size can be quite difficult and get slightly complicated.

Fear not!

We, at Bullion Exchange Jewellers, provide our customers with expert advice and help them in choosing their correct ring size.

Since there are many factors to consider when deciding on a ring size, the main factor is the shape of the ring finger, as explained below.

Finger Shapes

When sizing a ring to fit your finger, there are first a few things to take into consideration:

1. Fingers that are slim and have large knuckles: If your fingers have protruding knuckles, we would recommend that the ring must be very tight when pushing over knuckle. This is to ensure that when the ring is on the finger, it does not become too loose. (Since the section of finger behind the knuckle will be smaller than the knuckle).

2. Fingers that increase in size towards the palm with no obvious knuckle. This finger becomes larger as it goes up towards the palm then the ring must be placed a little towards the back of finger (towards the palm). This way it will create a little indentation in finger to support in place. It must be noted that the ring should not be worn loose with this finger type, since the tendency to slip can be greater. The ring should not be too tight as to cut the blood supply off either! These type of fingers are not very common and it must be remembered that a little tighter is always better than being slightly loose!

3. Fingers that are relatively even throughout : These finger types have a marginal knuckle to hold the ring in place and is considered a very neutral ring finger type. It is generally easy to measure this type of finger and can be worn either slightly tight or slightly loose, depending of course, on the ring and preference of the wearer. (Eg : Solitaire rings should be worn tight so as to ensure the diamond is in the center)
